

Big Staff Active In Recreational Summer Program

The summer staff of the Rye Recreation Department, as announced last week by Carl L. Bradford, Recreation Supervisor, has been busily preparing for their service to the children of Rye for the next eight weeks.

On Saturday, June 26, the whole crew of counselors attended the Summer Recreation Leaders' Workshop at Westchester Community College sponsored by the Westchester County Recreation Department. The workshop schedule included arts and crafts, dramatics, sports and games, music, and nature.

On Thursday, July 1, the entire staff attended an orientation meeting at the Rye Youth Center. Mr. Bradford began the meeting with remarks about the general duties of a leader. The Playground Director, Bill Goepfert, a sophomore at Fordham University and a three year veteran of the playground program, followed with a detailed description of the camp program. Rita Guardino, publicity and promotion director, concluded the morning session of the meeting with suggestions on how the leaders could contribute to the publicity program.

After lunch, several specialists spoke to the staff. Mr. Sidney Durbin of Economy Handicrafts conducted an arts and crafts workshop, emphasizing the combination of other activities with arts and crafts. Marjorie Mumma, head of the day camp arts and crafts program, and her assistant, Linda Henefield, especially benefitted from Mr. Durbin's interesting demonstration.

Larry Garinger, head instructor of the swimming program, then spoke of the importance of close supervision and strict adherence to safety rules during the afternoon swim sessions.

Sport counselors, Danny Sinto and Sandy Keys, then introduced the leaders to the new athletic program which will offer the playground groups specialized training in athletics.

Playground counselors for the girls' groups are Renee Garrellick, Geraldine Guardino, Leslie Turner, Helen Garinger, Marilyn Clayton, Cathy Verille, Jackie Gould, Eileen Kennedy, Bonnie Chiarella, and Christine Becker.

The boys' groups will be led by Barry Armitage, Dottie Uhle, Jane Wilson, Steve Feeney, Jason Roth, Anton Johnson, Jeff Adams, and Doug Casey.

Win Tower and Lois Zodicoff will be in charge at Gagliardo Park.

Working with water safety instructor Larry Garinger at Middle Beach in the swimming program will be Rosemary Johnson, Andrea Bono, Helen Garinger, and Judy Vernick, all of whom have their senior lifesaving certificates.

The day camp tennis clinic and the evening supervision of the courts will be conducted by Sharon Tarvers, assisted by Jill Reichert, Larry Garinger, and Gregg Olsen.

Mrs. Carol Sweeney and Miss Barbara Tyno will do the secretarial work this summer, while Mrs. Winifred Spezzano will manage the snack bar for the day camp lunch program.

On Tuesday, when day camp opened, the staff was greeted by some 500 children.

McWeeney Enlists In Marine Corps Reserve

John L. McWeeney of Rye has enlisted in the Marine Corps Reserve's six-month program at the New Rochelle Armory.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. John X. McWeeney of Halls Lane, he was sworn in as a member of Company F, 25th Marines, by Marine Major Richard W. Smith. Private McWeeney will leave for the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C., in July. After eleven weeks of basic military training he will undergo advanced infantry training at Camp Lejeune, N. C. In January he can return to this area and resume his civilian pursuits.

Private McWeeney attended Portsmouth Priory School in Portsmouth, R. I., and St. Lawrence University in Canton, N. Y., where he played freshman football.

Following his return from Camp Lejeune he will maintain his military proficiency by training one weekend a month with Company F. The company which numbers seven officers and 197 men, trains at the Marine Reserve Training Center in New Rochelle and in field training areas at West Point and Camp Smith, Peekskill, N. Y.

Shakespearean Scholars In Rye Public Schools

Unique in the annals of elementary public school curriculums, the Rye Public School System announces for the third consecutive year its elementary public school Shakespearean Scholars.

The schools and grades involved were the fifth and sixth grades of Milton School, Midland School and Osborn School.

To achieve the status of a Shakespearean Scholar, students had to make a perfect score on the examination prepared by Albert Cullum, language arts teacher.

Peter Allstrom, Priscilla Frank and Johanna Seicol were the sixth graders to achieve a perfect score of one hundred, and they are the Shakespearean Scholars of the Rye Public School System for the year 1965.

Other sixth graders coming close were Becky Arntzen 99, Rush De-Nooyer 99, Kathy Klein 98, Richard Linden 95, Cynthia Mantz 95, Claire Moos 95, Kathy Saunders 94, Jane Freeman 93, Penny Rue 92, Doug Ley 91, and David Place with a score of 90.

One fifth grader was able to break into this magic circle and that was Jane Lipman with a score of 92. Jane, when in the 4th grade, played the role of Juliet at the age of nine, both on the stage and on Channel 13.

The test consisted of 33 Shakespearean quotations based on nine of Shakespeare's plays: Julius Caesar, Hamlet, Macbeth, Romeo and Juliet, A Midsummer Night's Dream, The Tempest, A Comedy of Errors, Taming of the Shrew and Richard

Summer Of Music Festival Starting

Soprano Helen Boatwright will be the featured soloist Saturday evening (July 10) at 8:30 p.m. in the opening program of the "Summer of Music" festival. The festival is being held outdoors on the campus of Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart, Purchase. Stephen Simon will conduct the 80-member orchestra in a program devoted to the works of Mozart, including the "Haffner" Serenade with Jesse Tryon as violin soloist.

Miss Boatwright will sing two operatic arias, "L'amero, saro costante" from "Il Re pastore," and "Ruhe sanft, mein holdes Leben" from "Zaide." She will also sing the little-known "Bella mia fiamma," a scene for soprano written during the composing of Don Giovanni in Prague in November, 1787.

The program will conclude with the Symphony No. 39 in E flat Major, K. 543.

The July 10 concert will mark the first in a series of five concerts at the college. The remaining programs, which will be presented on consecutive Saturday evenings through August 7, will feature the music of Tchaikovsky and Rachmaninoff, Beethoven, Schumann and Brahms.

In case of rain, concerts will be presented on schedule indoors.

Where Else Can You Find All This?

Here is your one chance between now and next January to save on gifts, all kinds of gifts. Every item we offer comes from our regular stock, with no promotional or cut-rate merchandise added.

Some things we over-bought, quite frankly, and others I guess you'd say we under-sold. Anyway, you win in either case—because you have your choice of many great gift items at exactly 50% off! Select them from our bargain table at rear of shop.

Everything else in the shop, and we do mean everything, is marked down 10%. That is the very least you can save.

This sale will last for a limited time only and, since I feel as I do about such matters, it can be stopped overnight if the whim seizes me. And since that may well happen, please act soon.

Meanwhile, as you bargain—shop with us in air-conditioned comfort, you can sip iced tea on the house. We serve every time the THI passes 70. That way we keep the heat weather at bay—for both ourselves and our customers. Cordially...
